Dear JCI's newest member,

Congratulations! You have just become a member of the world's leading network of young active citizens. JCI is an organization that provides you with opportunities to empower you to create positive change both in your life and your community.

By deciding to join JCI, you joined nearly 200,000 young people in over 100 countries to create a positive impact in nearly 5,000 communities around the world. By this decision you share our common belief that young people must take action to improve their communities.

As a new member, you bring great value to the organization. You are full of fresh ideas and enthusiasm, vital in your ability to bring change. Please do not procrastinate. The time to take action is now. Your time as a JCI member will only be as valuable as your commitment and dedication to our mission and our values.

As you begin this very exciting experience as a JCI member, I encourage you to take ownership of this organization, strive to make it better but more importantly reach out and give this unique opportunity to another young person to become a member of this wonderful organization.

Once more, welcome to JCI. Make this experience worthwhile and enjoyable.

Sincerely,

Arrey L. Obenson
JCI Secretary General
